IN BANKBUPTCY. BEFORE MR. E. J. ACKBOYD, ACTING CHIEF mander Charles Spetizer, arrived at Amoy from

The Messageries Maritimes steamer Oxus, IN RE KWOK YIN PO. Mr. Dennys appeared for the bankrupt, for whom he now applied for an order for passing his final examination.

Mr. Wise, the Acting Registrar and Official Assignee, read his report, from which it appeared that the debtor was adjudicated a bankrupt on July 30, 1883, the first meeting of his creditors was held on the 17th August following, and his accounts for twelve months were filed in April, 1885. Notice of this application had been inserted in three newspapers, and behid received The British steamer Lennox went over to the sletter from Mr. Ewens, who represented three steamer Strathmore will go round to Aberdeen jection to offer to the debtor passing his final bution among the creditors, if there was no opposition, and there was also a house. His Lordship said in this case the bankrupt had seven creditors, whose claims amounted to $23,000 and the assets consisted of a house at 11: Mercer-street, and six debtors from whom very little had been recovered. While Official Assigned he had had occasion to sumine the bankrupt had given all the information he could give, or all that was required. His dealings were not on a very large scale. He bought two or three houses, and unfortunately his purchases turned out somewhat disastrons for him. A STORMY SCENE IN PARLIAMENT. LONDON, 24th April.

There was a stormy discussion in the House of Commons this evening over the bill for the registration of votors in Ireland. Colonel John P. Nolan, Home Rule member of Galway county. moved to amend the bill by providing that charges for registration be provided by the General Government and not be defrayed by Penjdeh, the Afghan General was through local rates and Gladstone vigorously opposed the amendment and drews gloomy picture of its possible results. Mr. Childers, Chancellor of the Exchequer, implored Irish members to have the head of either of the British officers with the patience and showed that their proposal would cause an additional burden upon taxpayers of £120,000. Colonel Nolan however, was obdurate and the amendment was carried by a vote of 62

TINGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Auglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office. Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objests in machinary, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relationshas imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained; forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto strained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vest economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously 7 L.M. EXTRACT.

COMINGINTO PORT. I have weathered the includent cape of storms, Where the winds of passion blow: I have sheered by thereers that gush to form The shallows that link below

I have joyed in the surge of the wistling sea, And the wild, strong strong of the gale, As my brave bark quivored and leaped, alive To the strain of its crowded sail. Then the masterful spirit was on me. And with Nature I wrostled glad; And Danger was likes passionate bride.

And Love itself haf mad. Then Life was a stom that blew me on. And flow as the wild winds fly: And hope was a penion atreaming out High up -to play with the sky. Oh, the golden days, the glorious days

That so lavish of life we spont, Oh; the dreaming nights with the silent stars Neath the sky's mysterious tent. Oh, the light, light heart and the strong desire And the pulse's quokening thrill. Whon Joy lived with us and Beauty smiled,

And Youth had itsfree full will The whole wide wolli was before as then, And never our spirite failed. And we never looked back, but onward, onward . Into the Future we sailed.

Ever before us the fir herizon, Whose dim and equisite line Alone divided Earthfrom Heaven, Our life from a life diving.

Now my voyage is well nigh over. And my staunchest spars are gone Any my soils are rest, and my barnacled bark Drage slowly and heavily on, The faint breeze comes from the dist With its odors din and sweet. And soon, in the silent harbour of peace,

Long-parted friends I shall greet. The voyage is well-nigh over. Though at times a capful of wind Will rattle the rope and fill the sails And furrow a wake behind.

But the sea has become a wearings. And glad into port I shall come, With my sails all fuled, and my anchor dropped, And my cargo carded home.

He port turned his l attention to Central Asia, and was named a member of the Imperial commission for studying the ancient bed of the Amu Darva. Then came General Skobelef's campaign against the Teke Turcomans. M. Lessar was appointed to the staff, but the engineer was not as yet wholly transformed into the diplomatist, and he was charged with the rellway works between Mikailovsk and Kizil Avrat. He soon, however, passed definitely into the service of the Russian Office, and was placed under the orders of the Governor of the newly annexed Transcaspian province. Now commenced the most notable period of his career, when, always in the uniform of a dussian reflicer, and accompanied by a small band of Turcomans. he travelled on horseback during two entire MACAO. years, traversing a total distance of 9,000 lalomòtres, and surveying various districts in Khiva, Bokbara, Persia, and Northern Afghanistan. The outcome of these journeys was a new map of a great part of Central Acia. "If you glance at Walker's map, published as late as 1881," says M. Lessar, "you will notice that the tract of country between the Heri Rud and Murgh Ab rivers is a blank, but in the chart which illustrates my travels the missing information is fully supplied." M. Lessar is pardonably proud of his work, and is not altogether insensible to the rare distinction of being immortalised in a buiky English, Blue-book-"Central Asia, No. 1 of 1883"-which was wholly devoted to the subject of his expedition. List year be accompanied General Komaroff (of whom he speaks in the highest possible terms) to Merv, and was at once sent on a perilous voyage of discovery to Penj-den. Then arose the great frontier controversy, and M. Lessar was despatched to St. Petershurgeto report. On the negotiations being opened in London he was deputed to join M. de Staal in London. M.
